POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

Title: Intern, Director's Office, Center for Geoeconomics Studies

Location: In person in New York Office

Pay rate: $18.50/hr

Founded in 1921, the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is a leading nonprofit membership organization, research center, and publisher, with headquarters in New York, an office in Washington, DC, and programs nationwide. It is dedicated to increasing America's understanding of the world and contributing ideas to U.S. foreign policy. CFR's 5,000+ members are leaders in international affairs and foreign policy. CFR also publishes Foreign Affairs, the preeminent magazine on global issues, and provides up-to-date information about the world and U.S. foreign policy on its award-winning website, CFR.org.

CFR's Blavatnik and Robina Franklin Williams internships give selected interns the opportunity to receive training in the area of foreign policy, as well as skills training in areas such as writing, research, and program planning.

The Maurice R. Greenberg Center for Geoeconomic Studies works to promote a better understanding of how economic and geopolitical forces interact to shape the world. The intern will assist the Director of the Greenberg Center and the Deputy Director of the Greenberg Center on projects related to geoeconomic fragmentation, sanctions, export controls, trade, the future of the dollar, digital currencies, and supply chains.

The major responsibilities of this position will include (but are not limited to):

- Conduct qualitative and quantitative research on the future of the international economic order and the U.S. Treasury's sanctions programs
- Analyze the evolution of the global economic order
- Track relevant international economic policy news
- Prepare research memos
- Assist with logistical support for meetings and roundtables

Qualifications:

- Undergraduate or graduate student, with a concentration in international relations, economics, political economy, trade, history, technology, law, business, or a related field
- All applicants should have completed the equivalent of four semesters of college coursework (not including AP classes in high school) by the time they begin an internship
- An aptitude for and interest in international economics is strongly preferred
- Experience with data gathering and analysis is preferred
- Intellectual curiosity and a desire to deepen one's understanding of geoeconomics is required
- Strong research, writing, editing, and proofreading skills

CFR's internships are funded by the generous gifts of the Blavatnik Family Foundation, Robina Foundation, and the Franklin Williams Family.

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is committed to fostering a foreign policy community in the United States that is more representative of American society, recognizing that diverse backgrounds and perspectives contribute to broader, more informed participation in the foreign policy debate and lead to an enhanced understanding of the world and the United States' role therein. To that end, CFR is dedicated to continuing to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion throughout its work and workplace by building a more diverse membership and staff, producing and dispensing thoughtful analysis on a broad range of foreign policy issues, and developing relevant, wide-reaching programming that also serves to expand the foreign policy talent pipeline to underrepresented populations.
