POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

Title: Intern, International Political Economy

Location: New York Office or Remote

Pay rate: $18.50/hr

Founded in 1921, the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is a leading nonprofit membership organization, research center, and publisher, with headquarters in New York, an office in Washington, DC, and programs nationwide. It is dedicated to increasing America's understanding of the world and contributing ideas to U.S. foreign policy. CFR's 5,000+ members are leaders in international affairs and foreign policy. CFR also publishes Foreign Affairs, the preeminent magazine on global issues, and provides up-to-date information about the world and U.S. foreign policy on its award-winning website, CFR.org.

CFR's Blavatnik and Robina Franklin Williams internships give selected interns the opportunity to receive training in the area of foreign policy; as well as skills training in areas such as writing, research, and program planning.

CFR's David Rockefeller Studies Program has a fellow who is part of both the Asia Program and the Greenberg Center for Geoeconomic Studies. The intern will assist the team with ongoing research projects related to the Chinese economy and its position within the global economy.

The major responsibilities of this position will include (but are not limited to):

- Collect and analyze data on the Chinese economy and China's overseas investments
- Conduct research on China's economic policies and their impacts
- Conduct research on activities of government-owned investment funds in Asia and the Middle East
- Support ad hoc research requests for interviews, articles, briefings, etc., which could include research on international political economy, global financial markets, sovereign wealth funds, development finance, emerging markets, and/or East Asia - Middle East relations
- Assist in reviewing and updating the team's trackers including "Tracking China's Control of Overseas Ports," "Tracking China's Investment in Airports," and "Tracking Chinese Investments in Overseas Industrial Parks"

Qualifications:

- Undergraduate or graduate student focusing on international political economy, international finance, economics, or a related field

- All applicants should have completed the equivalent of four semesters of college coursework (not including AP classes in high school) by the time they begin an internship)
- Prior knowledge/interest in economics and/or finance is preferred
- Experience using statistical analysis programs such as Stata, R, or Excel is a plus
- Proficiency in Mandarin Chinese is an advantage
- Strong research, editing, and proofreading skills
- Proficiency in Microsoft Word, Excel and Outlook

CFR's internships are funded by the generous gifts of the Blavatnik Family Foundation, Robina Foundation, and the Franklin Williams Family.

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is committed to fostering a foreign policy community in the United States that is more representative of American society, recognizing that diverse backgrounds and perspectives contribute to broader, more informed participation in the foreign policy debate and lead to an enhanced understanding of the world and the United States' role therein. To that end, CFR is dedicated to continuing to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) throughout its work and workplace by building a more diverse membership and staff, producing and dispensing thoughtful analysis on a broad range of foreign policy issues, and developing relevant, wide-reaching programming that also serves to expand the foreign policy talent pipeline to underrepresented populations.
