

Maria Werlau

Maria Werlau is cofounder and executive director of Free Society Project, also known as Cuba Archive/Archivo Cuba, a non-profit think tank incorporated in Washington, D.C., to advance human rights through research and scholarship. Her extensive publications on Cuba cover a wide range of issues: economics/foreign investment, international law, policy, politics, human rights, and others. Werlau is also an independent consultant and former second vice president of Chase Manhattan Bank. She has a bachelor of science in foreign service from Georgetown University and a master's in international affairs from Universidad de Chile.